A breath of fresh prairie air blew in from North Platte, Neb., this week. Brought here by William J. Henry, Joe Schwaiger, Ira L. Bare and O. H. Thoelecke. Our Wesley Taylor wanted to get a whiff of the old state atmosphere and fraternized with the boys from back home. Wesley knows much about Nebraska from the Hastings standpoint. The visiting Nebraskans confessed we had some climate, but one of them was a real estate man and withheld other commitments.

And here are some more Midwest zephyrs. Ex-State Senator E. A. Johnson and wife, G. A. Schaller and wife, and E. A. Ruckie and wife, all from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, called at 116 South Birch street, to say hello to Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Morrison, formerly of Cedar Rapids. Sort of a Hawk-Eye reunion. Johnson is a prominent Iowa lawyer. Schaller a lumber dealer, and Ruckie manager of the Williams and Hunting Co. for 43 years. All are life-long friends of Morrison. Ruckie being the last of the old-boyhood chums. If you don't think that visit was a reminiscent reverly you are still too young to understand it.

The railroads have a word for it: "Watch your step." May I recommend this warning to Flake Smith, who stepped from a ladder without the proper precaution, and now he is nursing a sprained ankle.

Elmer Horton wants to talk with me. Display window in the Haley building goes bleepy, and I'm suspected. An undercover man reported to Horton that I went by the place with such heavy tread the vibration cracked the glass. Elmer, I apologize. I never intended to do it, but don't let Haley.

Most of my Santa Ana friends returned from the Santa Ana derby with nothing more than experience for the visit. Well, everybody can't pick the winner.

My understanding is that Bing Crosby is still making money out of the Santa Anita race track. The way to make money out of one of those merry-go-rounds is to own it.

From casual observation I have decided that too many people are of the opinion the state box receptacles at strategic corners are for everything but refuse. There is entirely too much debris lying on the streets to convince me that the public has the proper conception of the container. There is more than one way to keep a city clean. You can help both ways.

Fred Merker: Have you heard this one? And I hadn't. It was clean. Do you suppose that's the reason I had not heard it?

Whether you view optimistically or pessimistically the future business conditions, the best you can do is to do the best you can with the present. Insurance companies can underwrite your expectancy, but they cannot guarantee time, or how long you are going to be here to use it.

NEW CABINET SUGGESTION IS REFUSED

Chautemps to Carry On With Regime

PARIS. (AP)—French political parties rejected today a proposal that Premier Camille Chautemps' regime be replaced by a national union government to cope with the nation's serious internal and external problems.

The radical-socialist premier, who had offered to step down if he could be assured of an all-party participation in a national union government, resolved at once to carry on with his present radical-socialist cabinet.

Socialist and communist leaders, as well as chiefs of the extreme right and left, put what Chautemps considered impossible conditions to their participation in such a new government.

ASKS PLEDGES
However, before Chautemps promised to carry on he exacted pledges from many leaders that they would give his government a heavy parliamentary support on foreign policy.

Leftist deputies predicted Chautemps would receive 400 out of a possible 618 votes in the chamber. They said the premier wanted a demonstration of unity in foreign affairs to "fling in the face" of Premier Mussolini of Italy and Reichsfuehrer Hitler of Germany.

Members of the chamber of deputies said the radical-socialist premier was convinced that France's economic, social and diplomatic troubles had reached a point where they should be handled by a cabinet representing all parties.

FOREIGN PROBLEMS
Foremost among the foreign problems were the new British approach to friendship with Italy and German ambitions in Europe—their sweeping advance already.

POLICE NAMED IN 'PAY-OFF'

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—A Los Angeles police captain was named as the "pay-off" of a Japanese-Chinese lottery today by William Moseley Jones, speaker of the state assembly, who announced he has turned over to the county grand jury details of a war for control of the lottery.

Jones charged that five slayings resulted from the battle to gain control of the lottery.

The speaker declared an individual named Yasuda originally headed the lottery, but was killed in Los Angeles in 1921 in a quarrel over the control.

PASADENA. (AP)—Lathrop K. Leishman is the new president of the Pasadena Tournament of Roses committee. Vice president of the committee last year and the son of William L. Leishman, who was president during 1920, he was named at the annual meeting of the committee last night.

Need for 'Riley Brief Case Fund' Becomes Acute

Supervisor Harry Riley's brief-case troubles were over today—or just beginning.

Riley's bulky leather case, in which he carried various "state papers" was burned last week when fire destroyed his garage.

The brief case became something of a standing joke last year when it bulged too far and split along a seam. Riley had it fixed, then turned a bill in to the county for 85 cents on grounds he carried county papers in it.

The bill was turned down, the story got around and Riley was joshed considerably.

Now he's looking for the 40 cents reportedly collected by a local weekly for the "Riley brief case fund." It might make a down payment on another.

U. S. STEPS IN OIL CASE

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—The federal government, Atty. Gen. U. S. Webb said in court today, may intercede and claim title to oil lands in the Los Angeles-Long Beach sector.

Webb made the statement when he was arguing against demurrers advanced by defendants in four suits in which the state of California seeks to enjoin them from drilling for oil on the disputed tidelands.

That the U. S. attorney general has been investigating with a view towards possible filing of suits to claim the land for the government.

The state, he added, is prepared to defend its own rights if such action is taken.

M'NUIT MAKES POLITICAL BOW

WASHINGTON. (AP)—A new kind of political debut that smacked more of Hollywood than of Washington put Paul V. McNutt of Indiana before the nation today as a Democratic presidential prospect for 1940.

The high commissioner to the Philippines greeted 3141 men and women with a "how-do-you-do" at a reception as sumptuous as any the oldest capital overlooks could remember.

The party drew almost as many congressmen as a Democratic caucus, and two cabinet members.

Army Air Corps Needs Under Quiz

WASHINGTON. (AP)—A house military sub-committee prepared today to begin a secret investigation of the needs of the army air corps.

Informed members said the investigation would cover not only the air corps' strength in planes, but also its need for additional bases.

PRINCESS WAITS STORK

HSINKING, Manchoukuo. (AP)—Princess Pu-Chieh, Japanese wife of the younger brother of the emperor of Manchoukuo, was in a hospital today awaiting the birth of a child. She is the former Hiroko Saga, member of a distinguished Tokyo family.

TYPEWRITER CASE RULE AFFIRMED

Fenelon Loses in Battle With Lambert

County Auditor W. T. Lambert today was winner in the famous "typewriter case" as an appellate court decision denied the right of supervisors and purchasing department to dictate purchases to county department heads.

The fourth district court of appeal in a decision written by Presiding Justice Barnard affirmed a decision handed down here last year by Superior Judge G. K. Scovel, directing a writ of mandate to issue against Purchasing Agent Eugene Fenelon.

Notice of the appellate court's decision was received here today by Lew Blodgett, attorney for Auditor Lambert.

The writ directed Fenelon to purchase an L. C. Smith typewriter for Lambert's office. Fenelon, under a purchasing policy of the board of supervisors, formulated by Supervisor N. E. West of Laguna Beach, had refused to buy that make of typewriter for Lambert, contending he had been directed to distribute the business.

West had charged that the R. A. Tiernan Typewriter Co., political enemy of his, had been getting the lion's share of the county's office equipment business.

As a result of the appellate court's decision today Fenelon must purchase the typewriter requested by Lambert. Lambert, pending outcome of the suit and appeal by the supervisors, has paid rent on a similar typewriter to an amount almost reaching the purchase price of a new machine. Several hundred dollars in attorney's fees also will be expended by the contestants.

U. S. DEBT UP TO NEW HIGH

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The federal deficit has passed the $1,000,000,000 point and the debt has risen to a new record high of $37,616,605,571, the treasury said today.

On February 21, expenditures exceeded income by $1,008,685,794. Including the $250,000,000 of additional relief expenditures approved by both houses of congress except for senate amendments, the federal deficit is expected to reach $1,544,000,000 by June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

The deficit, however, was only about half as large February 21 as on the corresponding date of the previous fiscal year when it was $2,007,656,069.

GUNNERY PRACTICE

SAN PEDRO. (AP)—Anti-aircraft gunnery practice was ordered in the San Clemente island area today for 11 heavy cruisers of the U. S. fleet's scouting force.

All units of the fleet will remain in port from Feb. 23 to March 14, loading stores for the annual six weeks' war games in the Pacific.

Austrian Chancellor's Speech Waited

VIENNA. (AP)—Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg tonight began his tensely awaited speech on his Berchtesgaden compact with Germany's Reichsfuehrer Hitler, using Austria's 59-member federal diet as a sounding board.

The session took place in the huge Reichstag hall of the parliament building, packed by 1200 members of the cabinet, officials and members of the fatherland front.

The chancellor entered the building shortly after 7 p. m., (1 p. m. E. S. T.)

Schuschnigg's speech was expected to be both a reply to Hitler's Reichstag speech of last Sunday and his version of the Berchtesgaden accord by which he was compelled to admit Nazi influence into the Austrian government.

Outside parliament Schuschnigg's supporters paraded while Nazis prepared counter demonstrations. The building, hall and vicinity

WPA TO WORK PERSHING IN ON MAIN ST. NEW RELAPSE

Completion of the long-dragging $200,000 South Main street extension was in sight today, with approval by county supervisors of a WPA project for finishing the job.

Total cost of the completion will be $65,128, providing for construction of the road from the Corona del Mar hills through the Martin airport. Federal funds will total $46,738.

County contributions are listed at $18,340, but these include supervision and credit for rent of county equipment. Cash outlay by the county, Supervisor N. E. West told the board, will be between $3000 and $3600.

Three miles of road remain to be completed over the flat land. Highway Supt. A. A. Beard said, the project having been completed through the hills from Corona del Mar, where the street extension connects with the coast highway. The road, he added, should be completed by July 1. West said it could be paved in October.

2 Held in Slaying Of Hollywood Man

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Police arrested two men early today for questioning in connection with the slaying of Harold A. Thompson at his "Burp Hollow" cafe in Hollywood Tuesday night.

The cafe owner was shot down by one of two robbers who interrupted the floor show and looted the cash register of little more than $100. Taken into custody at a hotel room by officers were Louis Bernier, 30, and Paul Masterson, 28.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Physicians attending Gen. John J. Pershing said today the World war commander, veteran of many campaigns, was losing ground.

An official bulletin from the sick room shortly before 10 a. m. said the general is "definitely weaker and somewhat apathetic."

"This may be only temporary or it may presage more serious consequences," the bulletin, issued by Dr. Roland Davidson and Lieut. Col. S. U. Marrietta, stated.

"General Pershing is not as well this morning as he was yesterday," the bulletin began. "He had a restless night and while he is free from pain, he is definitely weaker and somewhat apathetic."

"While there is no heart failure his physicians are not fully satisfied with his heart condition."

General Pershing was cheered this morning by the arrival of his son, Warren, who flew in from Palm Beach, Fla.

The discouraging bulletin from the physicians made its appearance less than three hours later.

'Stir Crazy' Convict Uses Pick on Guard

FOLSOM. (AP)—Roy Taylor, secretary to Warden Clyde I. Plummer said a convict regarded as "stir crazy" attacked and wounded another convict and a guard with a pickaxe today.

Both the wounded men were taken to the prison hospital. Warden Plummer went to the lower yard to investigate the happening. His office said the excitement had subsided and no serious trouble was feared.

For blocks around was stopped. Carpets were only when Austria's departed emperors attended legislative sessions were brought out for the first time since the World war.

Within the hall generals' glittering uniforms and brilliant gowns of women gave the scene the aspect of an opera premiere.

Score of young members of the fatherland front Jungvolk organization and members of the Sturmkorps, forming a guard of honor, stood with dozens of banners on either side of the rostrum.

"The question of our existence is involved and we are banded together seeking a solution of this special task," declared the scholarly chancellor.

"The constitution recognizes no parties and no party state. It is based on the profession and guild principle of the people. . . . Therefore there are no coalitions either in political life or in the administration."

BOMBERS ON NEW FLIGHTS TO ISLANDS

'Foreigners' Said Piloting Planes

TOKYO. (AP)—All aviation and naval units in southwest Japan were on the alert against Chinese air raids to-night after a large area of the Japanese homeland had felt the dread thrill of air attack warnings for several hours.

Twelve big enemy bombing planes, escorted by fast pursuit craft, were reported at 11:10 a. m. to be roaring over the China sea to carry the war to the main islands of Japan. Formal air raid warnings were issued, but the enemy failed to arrive.

Naval officers expressed belief the Chinese armada had returned to its base when it became apparent its coming was known. The warnings were cancelled at 4:25 p. m.

JAPANESE READY
Japanese fighting ships swarmed over Formosa, Japan's island colony raided by the Chinese yesterday, and over Kyushu, the industrial and strategically important southwestern island of Japan proper.

The western portion of the main island, Honshu, also was under raid warnings for several hours.

Kyushu is nearly 500 miles across the China sea from the nearest China coast, but Chinese raiders probably are based at points 250 or more miles inland or along the coast of the southeastern province of Fukien, from which the distance to Kyushu would be at least 700 miles.

Shanghai reported Japanese planes today bombed Chinese airfields at Foochow and Amoy, the two main Fukien ports, apparently in retaliation for yesterday's attack on Taihoku and other Formosan cities, in which at least eight were killed and 29 injured.

SIGHT PLANES
Aerial defense headquarters had first reports of the Chinese squadron at 11:10 a. m. Thirty-five minutes later the Formosa garrison reported the planes were sighted.

CRASH CAUSES DUAL LAW TILT

Charles L. Ruby, Fullerton Junior college teacher, was being sued today before Superior Judge James L. Allen, for $25,000.

Ruby, in turn, was suing for $7500 for damages resulting from the same auto crash that started the suit against him.

The crash occurred in Fullerton last June. Jasper Curfman, the other party to the dual battle, Ruby and Curfman crashed in a head-on collision.

'Desert Rat' Says Quail Ain't Right

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Desert quail, out in the rocks, are getting the jitters, said Death Valley Scotty today.

"Some feller thought it smart to set out some fancy named, high-toned quail. Wal, the high-toned lice got mixed with the Death Valley lice and you can't reach the quail with an airplane."

"They used to come to the shack door to feed, but now they ain't quail, they're just scooters."

The desert rat blew into town for the first time in eight months, "to get some black bottom pie and look around," he said.

Merriam Proclaims Conservation Week

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—The week of March 7 was proclaimed today by Gov. Frank F. Merriam to be "California Conservation Week."

His proclamation stated the state has been richly blessed with an abundance of natural resources, and he urged all citizens to unite in development of a program for "conservation of the existing natural resources and for the preservation of the natural features and native beauty."

COUNCILMAN ADMITS TRY AT 'DEAL'

Other Officials May Be Dragged In

The ghost of kindly Walter J. Richardson brooded over proceedings . . .

Sensational testimony that may drag at least five members of the official family of the city of Orange into court was produced . . .

Spectators filled every seat and stood three rows deep in fidgety silence . . .

As the state opened its prosecution of elderly Dr. A. Croxton Boice, mayor of Orange, on charges he "unlawfully took and carried away" city gasoline to the amount of $6.36 on at least five separate occasions from September to January, 1937.

A jury of eight men and four women, produced after hours of wrangling by prosecution and defense attorneys, sat within two feet of the unblinking Dr. Boice, heard two witnesses blame former Water Superintendent Richardson, who died a week ago, for giving them "authority" to fill private cars with city gasoline.

Sensation rippled through the courtroom in Orange city hall when adroit probing of Defense Attorney Alec P. Nelson, one-time district attorney, revealed that five other officials of the city had filled their private cars at the city gas tanks.

Bitter animosity between Councilman Dr. J. E. Riley and Mayor Boice burst into open warfare today, as Riley testified from the stand he had offered to "quash the whole thing in return for Mayor Boice's resignation." He also testified as to talking to a number of Orange citizens on their willingness to sign a petty theft.

JAIL RENOUNCED BY TOWNSEND

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Dr. Francis E. Townsend, who came back to the capital to serve a 30-day jail sentence for contempt of a congressional committee, today announced he would appeal to the supreme court instead of going to jail.

Explaining his change of attitude, Dr. Townsend said:

"The principle involved is so tremendous, however, that I feel as do hundreds of my friends that this case should be fought to a finish."

"Being without funds to prosecute a further appeal, I have asked my counsel who have represented me up to now if they would be willing to carry on for me and they have agreed to do so because of the importance of the principle involved and their sense of obligation to a client."

Parking Victim Turns for Once; Snaps at Police

"Not guilty." J. C. Metzgar, 1414 Durant street, secretary-manager of the Home Owned Business association, barked these words to City Judge J. G. Mitchell yesterday. Only charge against him was overtime parking, but he is opposing the charge at a trial this afternoon. He waived his right to a jury.

"It's no test case," Metzgar told The Journal today. "It's just that I'd only parked 25 minutes and have witnesses to prove it. I've been guilty several times before, and I've gone and paid the dollar. It would have been simpler to pay it this time, but I couldn't conscientiously plead guilty when I wasn't."

Will Chinese armies and airmen smash the Nipponese invasion and bring death home to Tokyo? If they do, will the military autocracy collapse in Japan? Germany Falls in Line With British Peace Plan

SPANISH WAR AGREEMENT IS SOUGHT

Volunteer Withdrawal May Lead to Amity

LONDON. (P)—Prime Minister Chamberlain's "realistic" program for bargaining with the fascists for the peace of Europe today was reported advanced by German acceptance of the British plan for withdrawal of foreign "volunteers" from the Spanish civil war.

Italy's acceptance in principle already has been indicated, paving the way for Anglo-Italian friendship talks to open shortly in Rome.

Dr. Ernst Woermann, German charge d'affaires, visited the Earl of Plymouth, British undersecretary for foreign affairs, and informed sources said he agreed to the British "volunteer" proposals.

HITLER AGREES
This would indicate that Reichsfuehrer Hitler was but one step behind Premier Mussolini in his hesitating gesture toward the British government from which Anthony Eden, whom both disliked, has withdrawn as foreign secretary.

Further Anglo-German negotiations are expected to follow. The minister and retiring ambassador to London, returns here to take his formal leave of King George.

Soviet Russia still has not approved the British formula on "volunteers," but it was widely believed Germany and Italy were falling in line.

Preparations for the Anglo-Italian friendship talks, first contemplated step in Chamberlain's program, went ahead. Count Dino Grandi, Italian ambassador here, announced he would go to Rome this week-end to attend the session of the fascist grand council before the talks open.

The Earl of Perth, British ambassador to Rome, returning to London to receive instructions for the Rome conversations, was to confer at once with Chamberlain. He is to go back to Rome shortly.

Meanwhile opposition to Chamberlain continued its campaign to force the new foreign policy to the test of a general election.

Contending the swerve from League of Nations machinery to direct bargaining with fascist Italy and Germany was without popular mandate, the labor party and trades union council led the opposition.

In the house of commons today Chamberlain again refused to disclose the subjects of the coming Rome negotiations.

HALIFAX NAMED
Chamberlain indicated Viscount Halifax, lord president of the council, would continue in charge of the foreign office for the time being by asking that questions in the house of commons on foreign policy be directed to himself (Chamberlain). Lord Halifax, as a peer, cannot answer in commons.

Winston Churchill, key member of Britain's war-time cabinets, speaking to the Constitution club, deplored Eden's resignation as foreign secretary.

But he paid a tribute to Chamberlain's work as chancellor of the exchequer before he became prime minister.

He expressed hope nothing would happen to weaken the prime minister, and that "he may continue to lead the country forward in these critical times."

Week-end tourists returning from the Riverside-Pomona-Redlands navel orange districts, report buying excellent fruit at prices which varied so much that the sizes of the boxes must have also varied. However, the quality ran uniform. Navel oranges are mighty good to eat. The trouble this year seems to be that they haven't been able to get enough people to eat enough of them. There are so many special weeks that we are called upon to eat other fruits that oranges are getting into real competition. But there isn't anything to take the place of orange juice.

Letters of administration in the $3500 estate of Fern E. Vilelle of Newport Beach, who died Feb. 7 were asked today in a superior court petition by her husband, John Vilelle.

JURY COMMITTEES REPORT

A 15-point program was laid out today for county supervisors to consider, recommended by the county grand jury and its committees, which rested today after reporting and being discharged, its year's work done.

Juryman as a group made seven recommendations in their report to Superior Judge H. G. Ames. Two of these also appeared in committee reports, and committees themselves made 10 notable recommendations.

Points emphasized by the jury as a whole in its report included: Additional housing, equipment and nurses for the county hospital; more buildings and help for the juvenile home; a life-saving and fire boat for Newport harbor; modernization of the treasurer's office; uniform records for justices and constables; strict war on drunk drivers, and a one-member-to-a-family policy in county government.

Committee reports included the following advice:

Stop meddling with the purchasing department; stop criticizing the district attorney; give employees a sliding rate of 6, 5 and 4 cents a mile, according to miles traveled, for use of private cars on county business; pay justices of the peace more; give welfare department more room; provide markers for graves in "Potter's field;" don't cut the sheriff's pay; speed up work on the flood control program; expand the juvenile home and hospital.

Six committees—auditing, departmental, public health and welfare, public correction, education and public improvement—had reports on file today.

Fred Chapman's auditing committee, which visited Orange county's cities, recommended attention to cleanliness in some city jails and reported favorably otherwise.

The departmental committee, headed by G. E. Thompson of Laguna Beach, said Purchasing Agent Eugene Fenelon was being "impaired by unwarranted interference and dictation" by supervisors on purchases, especially typewriters and office equipment. Surveyor W. K. Hillyard needs better fire protection for records and maps, the committee said.

A pat on the back for Agricultural commissioner D. W. Tubbs was given in the committee's statement that "police work . . . results in criticism . . . we believe that the enforcement of the laws and regulations in the county has been impartial . . . we urge . . . wholehearted cooperation." Tubbs' deputies, the committee added, need more mileage money for their cars.

Justices of the peace, the committee said, do a good job for too little money. They should, however, adopt a uniform system of records, said the committee, which is pointed to the system in effect in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court in Santa Ana as an example. Constables Jesse Elliott and Charles Mitchell of Santa Ana also have a model system of records, the committee said.

Dist. Atty. W. F. Menton and his deputies, the committee reported, have "used good judgment in settling and keeping out of court many complaints . . . which could serve no good purpose and would clutter the court dockets . . . is giving good support to the county and to most of the offices with which they . . . are compelled to deal.

"We regret the apparent lack of cooperation between the board of supervisors and the district attorney, but we feel that the fault lies with the supervisors rather than with the district attorney."

Administrative overhead in the welfare department, said a committee headed by Mrs. C. A. Neighbors, is almost eight per cent of all expenditures, with cost per case $2.32 a month. The group commended Welfare Director Jack Snow for handling so much work in such small quarters.

A "happy and contented attitude among patients and attendants" prevailed at the hospital, the group reported. It recommended a third story on the main building to house surgery, staff room and library to leave room for more wards on the second floor. New and modern equipment was urged, following agitation after a baby had been seriously burned and died early this year.

Additional inspection of milk and food sanitation was recommended for the health department, and supervisors were asked to consider establishment of a sewer district at Dana Point.

"Potter's field" needs water and new cement markers, the committee said, classing the grounds "badly kept."

Ray F. Frantz' committee on public corrections commended the probation department for "excellent work" and close cooperation with the juvenile home as "clean, sanitary and well-managed" and the jail as "a model for institutions of correction."

Those charged with operating the juvenile home, it added, "should be entirely free from political interference," and the home's long-considered building program should be started at once.

Sheriff Logan Jackson and his office received an accolade from the committee as "well equipped and efficient," Jackson, it said, "has always exhibited a steady devotion to the cause of law enforcement . . ." His income from the office was stated by the committee at less than $10,000 a year, which the group said should not be changed.

Justin H. Stewart, who dissented on the jury's accusation against Supervisor N. E. West, headed the education committee. That group made minor recommendations in a number of county schools, investigated complaints by Mrs. M. Linebarger of Brea, and called her accusations "entirely without foundation, and we recommend to future grand juries that no more time or money be spent in the further investigation of any charges brought by her, dating before Dec. 1, 1937."

Better training of school custodians, such as under way in Santa Ana's adult education program, was recommended for all schools, as were more fire drills.

Antone Borchard's public improvements committee submitted a thorough eight-page report on flood control. It recommended to local storm drain construction be continued, acquisition of the Westminster drainage district by the county, continuance of studies of the water situation, and efforts to have the $15,000,000 federal program completed as soon as possible.

Representatives of the justice and interior departments, sponsoring the legislation with the navy, frankly told the committee yesterday they didn't know the title-holder, if any.

Attack on Girl Just Story, Claim

SAN BERNARDINO. (P)—A Los Angeles schoolgirl's sensational story of being kidnapped and held prisoner overnight in a mountain cabin by a strange man was branded today by Sheriff Emmett L. Shay as a fabrication.

The sheriff said Mary Fowler, 17, admitted she told the story to explain her absence from home.

Trouble at high school caused her to run away, the sheriff said, and she hitch-hiked to Monrovia Monday, slept overnight in a park and then walked to San Bernardino Tuesday.

Yesterday she was discovered by officers and questioned. Claiming to be an escaped kidnaper victim, she was taken on a search for the abductor's rooming hide-out before she revised her story.

Harold L. Lawrence Humphrey of Fullerton who died last Nov. 15 left joint tenancy property worth $6500 inheritance tax applier Howard Irwin reported today.

The property consisted of Orange county real estate.

ARKANSAS FEAR WORST FROM FLOODS

FULTON, Ark. (P)—Fulton's fate rested today in the sturdiness of an eight-foot sandbag barrier and the whims of the turbulent Red river which registered an all-time high stage of more than 36 feet.

Some 50 river miles downstream the restless torrent blew out a levee opposite Garland city to inundate 100,000 acres of rich farm lands, inhabited by hundreds of families. Skiffs were sent across the stream to aid those near the break.

The sandbag dyke here, thrown up by volunteer and WPA workers, was patrolled by guards who alternately watched the river gauge and looked for weak spots. The bags took a terrific beating from the angry stream, which stretched to a width of five miles in front of the town. Normally its width is 250 yards.

Most long-time residents agreed that if the river rose any higher the community would be flooded, for the first time in 30 years.

The Shreveport weather bureau predicted a stage of 38 to 40 feet by tonight.

Refugee congestion added to the tension. Many Fulton residents took to the hills, but faster than the partial evacuation was the influx of lowlanders driven from their homes. Churches were being utilized and a call went out for food, clothing and tents.

Elsewhere in Arkansas flood tension subsided.

BOMBERS ON NEW FLIGHT

ed over the ocean, headed north-eastward.

Scores of Japanese fighting ships roared out to meet the threat, but the enemy was not seen again.

Kyushu still watched anxiously for enemy raiders. Kagoshima, southernmost major city of the island, suffered a disastrous fire of mysterious origin, apparently not connected with the war.

Two persons were killed, many wounded, 1500 made homeless and 350 houses destroyed.

First direct word from Taihoku, Formosa capital, said the American consulate there was shaken but not damaged in yesterday's bombardment.

An eyewitness telephoned this account of the bombardment to Tokyo:

"We knew that aerial maneuvers were being held in Japan proper and that the navy was thought to be conducting trials had been extended to Formosa. The defense preparations, which had been rehearsed for weeks, unfolded perfectly."

"Some civilian casualties came from people running out to see the plane as they knew the raid was the real thing."

"The weather was clear and bright, but you couldn't see anything but mere specks in the sky because the Chinese planes were flying at tremendous altitudes."

"I didn't see the bombs falling. Sirens, whistles and all raid firemen assembled at defense stations."

"At first everyone was just curious. Then a bomb exploded with a terrific roar that shook the earth. The bomb missed the air-drome, on the outskirts of Taihoku."

"Right away, four others fell. A brick factory, the Japanese mining company office and a number of dwelling houses were hit. The mining office caught fire but firemen soon extinguished the blaze."

"Most of those were killed or injured were fishermen or their families, whose matchbox homes were blown to bits. There were huge craters where the bombs exploded."

"One woman sat holding the body of a little girl, one of three children killed, and gave it to rescue workers only after a long argument."

"The city proper was not damaged. The main wreckage was in the poor suburb of Matsuyama."

"Japanese here could hardly believe that Japanese territory actually had been touched. It was not until several hours later that we learned Shinkichi City, on the West coast, had been raided too."

Japanese fighting planes took the air to pursue the bombers, but the Chinese craft soon disappeared over the sea.

One high authority said he was convinced that the pilots of the Chinese bombers were foreigners and not Chinese. He declined to amplify his statement other than to remark that "Chinese themselves would have tried it long before this if they had dared."

MOBILIZATION BILL CAUSES UPROAR

TOKYO. (P)—The national mobilization bill which would give the government broad wartime control over business, finance and the private lives and property of the citizens brought bitter, uproarious rebellion in parliament today.

Members of the lower house howled for Foreign Minister Koki Hirota to answer questions put by Takao Saito, a legal expert. Members opposing the bill argued it was unconstitutional.

Hirota attempted to have Masao Taki, president of the planning board, answer the questions but

'Vampire' Man With Narcotic Kiss Stirs S. F. Women

SAN FRANCISCO. (P)—A "vampire man" with a narcotic kiss, was sought by San Francisco police today on charges of grand theft and bigamy.

In swearing to a complaint yesterday Mrs. Vivian Korth, 32, and Mrs. Laura Alvina Smith Mowery, 41, asserted "their" husband's kisses left them slaves to his slightest wishes.

Inspector Fredale said Mrs. Laura Mowery told him she believed her husband administered "some sort of narcotic through his caresses."

"All I know," he quoted her as saying, "is that it acted with terrifying speed and power. It always left me sick and in a highly nervous state."

POLITICS HOT IN BOICE CASE

complaint against the mayor, before Lewis Evans offered to sign the complaint.

Prosecuting Atty. Preston Turner provided the first fireworks of the trial when he attempted to impeach testimony of yesterday's principal prosecution witness, as a hostile witness.

Corroboration of yesterday's testimony was offered by a parade of witnesses, including City Clerk E. H. Elijah, Councilman Kellar E. Watson, Councilman C. M. Carlson, Riley and Justice of the Peace Cal D. Lester.

They were, admitted Engineer Ernest Davis, Chief of Police George Franz, Street Superintendent C. C. Bonebrake, Building Inspector Frank B. Bale, WPA Street Project Foreman Homer Davis, and a Mr. Baker, foreman of the WPA sewer project.

Today's witnesses also testified each of the first three men named had been given authority by city council to use city gas in their own cars—on city business.

Protests of Deputy District Attorney Preston Turner that such evidence was no defense for Mayor Boice were over-ruled by Justice D. J. Dodge, who said the jury would be "the best judge of that."

Davis, in use of city gas in his gas tank, testified he had filled Mayor Boice's car on five separate occasions, producing records of the pumping plant to support his testimony.

His immediate superior Engineer George Williams, testified as to filling the mayor's car once, and told the court he had received the gasoline Mayor Boice returned "in restitution." It was stipulated by prosecution and defense that Mayor Boice had returned 240 gallons on Jan. 18, despite Turner's protests that restitution was no defense.

The white-haired mayor and his accuser, Lewis Evans, characterized by Boice as a "plaza-sitter, mixed up in a plot to take over control of the city government," sat a few feet apart, avoided each other's eyes throughout proceedings.

The state used seven usensatory challenges, and nine jurors were excused for cause in the day-long battle to fill the jury box. A jury was picked at 4 p. m. yesterday.

It consisted of six ranchers, a nurseryman, a retired furniture dealer, and four housewives. They were:

Earl Crawford, M. E. Bivens, W. C. Kast, Conger Thomson, Fred Volberding and F. A. Blake, ranchers; W. O. Higgins, retired merchant; Walter F. Galt, nurseryman; Mrs. Margaret Tulene, Mrs. Elizabeth Benson, Mrs. Amelia Krohe and Mrs. Waldo C. King.

From the beginning attempts to pick the 12 to judge Mayor Boice sat into repeated snags in the form of jurors who admitted strong conviction on the case, with Turner challenging juror after juror, on grounds they would be unable to adhere to the "reasonable doubt" doctrine in balancing evidence.

Juror Bivens, who was allowed to retain his seat, struck the keynote of jury sentiment when he replied to a prosecution question:

"I've been wondering if one would have to find him guilty and then apologize for it."

Two venies were used in picking the jury.

The state was expected to close its case late today, with indications that the trial would drag through at least another day before its conclusion.

Dr. Boice has promised his testimony would be "startling." He said he would "expose the political plot responsible for the whole affair."

members of the house shouted him down. The speaker recessed the house to quell the disorder.

AMERICAN REGISTERED PAPER BOMBED

SHANGHAI. (P)—A terrorist's bomb today blew out the front of the building occupied by the American-registered, anti-Japanese newspaper Hwa Mei Wan Pao, of which Hal P. Mills of New Orleans is publisher. Two persons were killed and 10 injured.

The bomber, a Chinese, was shot dead by a Chinese police watchman, who was hurt by the blast. A Chinese workman inside the building was killed. Nine others, mostly Chinese passersby, were injured.

HUNGARY IN OFFER TO SETTLE DEBT

WASHINGTON. (P)—Hungary revived the whole question of war debts today by announcing a proposal for settling her obligation to the United States.

She offered to pay "one hundred cents on the dollar" of her original indebtedness, but minus interest.

Payments would total $1,207,000, divided into 30 annual non-interest-bearing installments of about $39,000. The original debt was $1,685,000, from which Hungary would subtract the amount she already has paid on interest and principal—$478,000.

Hungarian minister John Pelenyi in a statement, said the proposal:

Has nothing to do with the debts of any other country toward the United States;

Has nothing to do with any trade agreement with the United States, which Hungary does not contemplate at present, and

Has nothing to do with the Johnson act, since Hungary does not desire further loans in the United States. The act forbids further loans to delinquent nations.

Hungary's debt to this country arose through the purchase on credit of 13,890 tons of flour in the famine year of 1920.

Her proposal was discussed by President Roosevelt with Secretaries Hull and Morgenthau and congressional leaders last Thursday. It brought opposition from some congressmen on the ground that it could be used as a precedent by other and bigger debtors.

United States debt experts calculated that the new proposal, if applied to all government debtors to this country, would mean a scaling down of the indebtedness from approximately $12,000,000,000 to $7,500,000,000.

SENATOR HITS LABOR BOARD

WASHINGTON. (P)—A demand for an increase in the appropriation of the national labor relations board drew from Senator Burke (D., Neb.) today a declaration that the board's administration of the labor act had been a "national disgrace."

Chairman Glass (D., Va.), commenting on the senate appropriations committee's reduction in the proposed labor board appropriation from $2,955,000 to $2,570,000, told the senate "some of us think the board ought to be abolished."

Noted Actor Family Hit by Parrot Fever

VIENNA. (P)—Three members of a famous theatrical family—Hugo Thimg, his wife and their son, Hermann—were under hospital care today for what was thought might be psittacosis.

(Psittacosis, sometimes called "parrot fever," is a disease of birds which is communicable to man.)

Eight friends who recently visited the Thimings, including two physicians, also were suffering from the same ailment, originally diagnosed as grippe. Helene, a daughter of the Thimings, is the wife of Producer Max Reinhardt.

TWO MORE SONS SUED FOR AGED

Suit against two more sons for support of their aged fathers were on file today in superior court. Deputy District Attorney J. E. Walker filed the complaints against John F. Stull and Ray J. Wilkins, others in a series under a new state law providing for reimbursement suits if pensioners are found to have financially able sons or daughters.

Stull, the complaint alleged, has an income of $344 a month and owns property worth $8000. The county asks judgment for $140 paid his father, Edward Stull. Wilkins was sued for support of Edward Wilkins, his father, who has been paid $105 in old-age pensions. The son, Walker alleged, received $225 monthly salary and owns property worth $2500.

Herring's Estate Set at $10,567.73

Joseph M. Herring of Santa Ana who died last Dec. 22, left an estate worth $10,567.73, Inheritance Tax Appraiser James B. Utt reported today.

The estate consists mostly of stocks, bonds and cash, in addition to a Santa Ana home appraised at $3500.

JOINT TENANCY

Termination of a joint tenancy of the late John F. Richardson of Orange in 13 lots in the Orange district was asked today in a superior court petition by the widow, Mrs. Grace Richardson.

drew the longer sentence in lieu of a $250 fine in Anaheim city court, and Oliver Griffith Tucker, 47, 131 South Main street, Placentia, failed to pay a $150 fine in the same court.

HOUSEKEEPER REMEMBERED

Charles J. Webster of Newport Beach, who died Feb. 15, left most of his property to Mrs. R. R. Mitchell Rountree, his housekeeper, according to terms of a will and codicil filed for probate in superior court today.

The estate, valued at $15,000, includes a $10,000 home on Ocean drive, Newport Heights, $1000 worth of furniture, and $141.65 in cash.

The will, dated Aug. 7, 1934, left small amounts to 13 nephews and nieces, but the codicil slashed most of these bequests to $1 each. Residue of the estate goes to Mrs. Rountree, the will listing debts to Mrs. Rountree of $4200 for her services as a housekeeper and $1215 to Malcolm Ulysses Rountree for loans. He and LeRoy P. Anderson of Costa Mesa, were named as executors.

Footprints Clue To Chicken Theft

Two imprints of what officers believed the same tennis shoe today had connected two burglaries committed in the Anaheim district Tuesday night.
Nineteen chickens were stolen from a henhouse belonging to Curtice Case, 201 East Center street, Anaheim, located on Western avenue north of Lincoln avenue. Loot was valued at $30.

A WPA office trailer parked at Citron and Sycamore streets in Anaheim, meanwhile, was entered at about the same time and a first aid kit and box of pencil leads were stolen.

The most dangerous hour for accidents in New York City is between 7 and 8 p. m.

FASHION CHATTER

Dear friends . . . Good-byes to winter, and welcome to spring, even in writing, so I'll just say au revoir. It's been loads of fun talking to you each week through the medium of this little column, and I'm going to miss it, but other duties call, and I must go.

However, Fashionettes will continue . . . bigger and better than ever before. Watch for my very capable successor next week.

And now I want to thank the merchants for their splendid cooperation in supplying me with advertising . . . the life blood of the column. Also I wish to extend my thanks to my readers for their patience with and response to Fashionettes.

And now, that my thanks are offered, let's have a look-see into fashions for a moment. I've been seeing so many pleats these past few days that I can't resist a comment or two on them. In so many instances, pleats are being used the entire length of the dress, with pleated bodice matching in effect the pleated skirt. Circular pleating which used to be known as sunburst has been actively revived, with the pleats stitched in to make them more lasting. Accordion pleating is definitely in too . . . all right for the slender one, but if you are classed with the latter, better think twice before you don a fully pleated skirt. Becomingness holds the upper hand with style, and if the garment isn't becoming, better leave it alone. Nothing is gained by making a spectacle of yourself, just to keep up with Dame Fashion. Toodle-oo!!

RAMBLING
ORANGE COUNTY
—with—
T. N.
(BRICK)
GAINES

Without another copy of the Neighborhood News to re-publish, looks as if I'll have to get to work. Ho, hum! And in this spring weather, too!

However, with a meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce just cooling off, it shouldn't be hard to find something. Or should it?

We all learned what's really happening in Orange county in Midway City Tuesday night, at that. Chamber of commerce guys usually fill the air with praises about their towns, and they outdo themselves when telling of last year's accomplishments. Especially Charlie Dennison and Harry Welch, who spoke so convincingly about Newport that half of those attending decided to move down to the bay before the talks were over.

Seriously, however, Santa Ana did the smartest thing in 10, these many years when Judge Jim Tucker was named as official representative and back-patter of the chamber of commerce here.

For some time the county seat has been looked upon as a nasty place, which keeps his nose in the air except when wanting something from somebody. That hasn't been the case, but that's the way folks felt, anyway.

And then Judge Tucker shows up at meetings and makes folks laugh and he boos Santa Ana a bit, and before long opposition is beginning to feel that perhaps some human beings live in Santa Ana, as well as other places.

Last night, for instance, Judge Tucker giggled a bit because Santa Ana can't brag much about getting new industries. He heaved rocks at the parking situation. He mentioned lack of proper junior college campuses and wound up by bragging that, anyway, Santa Ana is a nice harbor—at Newport.

Folks liked that.

And I think Santa Ana had better get a few more Judge Tuckers busy, don't you?

Eavesdropping on an interesting conversation between Howard Iwin, that Republican, and Orion Behermeyer, school man from Westminster. Both seemed to know everything about Kansas. I don't know how Howard learned his geography, but Behermeyer confessed to selling books in many small towns while going to college.

He also told a tale about a rain storm, but we hadn't better go into that!

Heh! Was V. D. Johnson on a spot?

The Orange Chamber of Commerce secretary always thinks cooks of the dinner, wherever a meeting is held, for delicious viands, etc., etc. He goes into his routine with a flowery technique that slays 'em.

But V. D. has been pretty awful sick. He can't eat much, even yet, and last night had to sit there while plates of excellent food went sailing past his nose.

But he got up, anyway, and expressed appreciation for the food other people ate!

The Rev. C. N. Jones of Midway City is a good guy. Which is meant as a compliment. And besides, I heard several other people say that when discussing him.

He gave the address of welcome. Started out by saying that all such speakers claim they're only going to talk a minute and then spout for hours. Caught himself also starting to make a long talk, and quit in the middle of a sudden.

And he described himself as a cinder in the public eye, which isn't bad, huh?

Jack Crill brought giggles after H. Clay Kellogg of Garden Grove had told what a wonderful town he lived in and had praised Garden Grove to the skies.

Jack reminded the audience that Clay is in the fertilizer business.

Another Kellogg, George from Yorba Linda, claimed his home is in the "banana belt" of Orange county, just because none of the fruit froze there last winter. In the next breath he mentioned the wells, which are threatening to climb upon front doorsteps in that district.

Didn't "banana" and "oil" used to have some meaning, when stuck together? Yeah, and George even wouldn't admit they have lemons in Yorba Linda!

Harry May, genial Fullerton secretary, who always succeeds in being amused, no matter what happens, scaled the heights of humor when he even discovered something funny in a senator's letter to his constituents.

The Associated Chambers of Commerce written to Congressman Harry Sheppard and Senators Hiram Johnson and McAdoo, asking for some support on something or other.

Sheppard and Johnson replied very nicely. May pointed out, while McAdoo's reply, in effect, stated "getch it, getch it."

Brought a good laugh, too.

If I wasn't afraid the cops'd get mad, I'd tell how much Fire Chief Harold Robertson hurried to get from Bakersfield to Midway City to attend that meeting. He must have sprouted wings, almost, to make the trip in the time he did. Tch!

Which is all. I was going to

Anaheim to Get $11,205 Police Target Range

WPA FUNDS APPROVED FOR PROJECT

County to Furnish $3637 of Total Cost

ANAHEIM. — Two-year-old hopes for a police instruction and pistol range were brightened today, as county supervisors sent in for approval an $11,205 WPA project range near Anaheim.

First submitted in 1936 by the then Supervisor LeRoy Lyon, the project, later revised, was signed yesterday. County Building Inspector Edward Mahl was named sponsor's agent.

The property to be used is southwest of Anaheim, on the old site of the Anaheim police range. Plans call for a wood frame shed 16 by 127 feet open at the ends and sides, two reinforced concrete target pits at 25 and 50 yards, with pedestrian tunnels of reinforced concrete connecting the target pits.

Twelve targets will be accommodated at the 25-yard range and six targets at 50 yards. Federal funds will total $7668 and county funds will total $3637.

ORANGE LEGION GROUP FETED

ORANGE.—As has been the custom for the past 15 years, members of the American Legion auxiliary served the American Legion post, their wives, and husbands of auxiliary members a turkey dinner in celebration of Washington's birthday Tuesday night in the Legion hall. More than 150 were present.

Joe Long, state commander of the legion, was speaker of the evening, introduced by George Franzen, master of ceremonies. Objectives of the American Legion and events of the life of Washington were subjects of his talk.

Official welcome to guests was extended by Mrs. M. J. Telford, president of the auxiliary, and the response was made by Ewald Wegner, commander of the post. An accordion band composed of pupils of Mrs. Joy Elder played selections, a saxophone solo by Reginald Costello and a Clarinet trio from the Mathews studio of Santa Ana made up the musical program.

Afterward 500 and bridge were played under direction of Mrs. S. A. Goodwin, chairman of games. Mrs. Ewald Wegner, in charge of prizes, announced that Mrs. Joe Long and George Carlson were awarded high in bridge, and Mrs. Loy Laurie and Louis Froster were low. In 500, high scores were made by Mrs. Jessie Preston and Allan Osmun, low by Mrs. Flora Fairbairn and S. A. Goodwin.

ORANGE.—A retreat for Presbyterian young people from all over Orange county will be held at the Orange Presbyterian church the evening of March 4, beginning with a 6:30 o'clock dinner, it was announced today by the pastor, Dr. Robert B. McAnulty.

The Rev. Haven M. Davis of Monrovia will be the speaker; the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, pastor of the Santa Ana church, will lead a devotional service, and L. E. Stanfield, San Gabriel Y. M. C. A., will direct a recreational period.

The students will play on the Willowick golf course near Santa Ana each Tuesday and Thursday. Ten girls and 17 boys have already enrolled for the course. Special credit on the golf course and gym credits for the boys' classes are added inducements.

Books Topic At Meeting

ORANGE. — Books that have been outstanding during the past 15 years were discussed by the Orange Book club Wednesday, led by Mrs. Mabel Faulkner, city librarian. The club met in Mrs. Faulkner's home on North Center street.

What made the books popular in their time, and what made some of them in popularity was the main point of discussion. Of books written prior to the past two years, Mrs. Faulkner gave paragraph reviews, of later books more detail was given.

Frank Rospaw and a dog which attended the meeting—no connection there, please—but there isn't space.

MODEST MAIDENS

"Well, the janitor says the superintendent says the agent promised that if it's this cold next winter they're gonna put in a furnace!"

George Washington Topic For Costa Mesa Lions

COSTA MESA.—"The Mental, Moral and Physical Greatness of George Washington" was the topic of a luncheon address given before the Costa Mesa-Newport Harbor Lions club, Tuesday by the Rev. A. F. Hasse, pastor of the First Methodist church of Haynes-Clearwater, and former Sky Pilot of the local club. The speaker was presented by C. W. TeWinkle, program chairman.

Of special interest was a short talk by John Manning, 94-year-old Civil War veteran of Costa Mesa, who was voted in as an honorary member of the club and as such is one of the oldest, if not the oldest, Lion in Southern California.

Telling briefly of his life, Manning stated he was born in Missouri in 1844 and served nearly three years with the Confederate Army. His family now numbers five generations, 111 direct descendants having been born in the past 66 years. Of this number, Manning said, 105 lineal descendants are still living. He is robust, is perfect health, and reads newspapers without the use of glasses.

Judge Kenneth E. Morrison of Santa Ana, last week's successful bidder for the "immunity derby" capably filled the position, relinquishing his right at next week's meeting to Mayor Harry Williamson of Newport Beach. The derby is auctioned off each week to the highest bidder who is immune from all fines or penalties while the hat is being worn.

Al Hehn and Henry Abrams will be program chairmen at the next meeting, and hope to present Jack Duell, harbor adventurer, in another of his engrossing stories of travel in little-known lands.

Visitors were the Rev. A. F. Hasse, Hynes-Clearwater; J. M. Beas, G. M. Bassett, Gil Ward and Judge Morrison, Santa Ana; D. Fleopley and A. B. Cubbage, Los Angeles; John Manning, Nell Murbarger and Miss Bette Pinkley, Costa Mesa and H. R. Rex, Redlands.

FARM CENTER SEES PICTURES

YORBA LINDA.—Motion pictures of the River Nile were shown at the February meeting of the Yorba Linda Farm center held Monday night at the Woman's clubhouse. John C. Tuffree of Placentia, well known citrus rancher and globe trotter, exhibited three thousand feet of film taken on a recent trip to Africa.

The pictures took the audience from the source of the Nile far in the interior of Africa to its mouth at Alexandria, on the shores of the Mediterranean. Many interesting shots of wild life along the banks of the river, both human and animal, were included in the reels shown.

Tuffree also explained the pictures as they were shown, his running comment proving highly interesting.

The meeting was preceded by a 6:30 dinner served by the ladies of the Methodist church. Between 90 and 100 persons were present.

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

climbed into the back to look at Elsa. Her eyes were still closed, but her breathing was even and her pulse was regular. Home was the place for her, he decided. After a night's sleep she would probably be all right.

He got back into the driving-seat and headed the car in the direction of the Littles' house in Chelsea.

The Littles' house in Chelsea was quite a nice little place. It was quaint, it photographed well. The windows were leaded and the outside wall was covered with ivy. Women seeing it for the first time exclaimed: "What a dear little house!" For those reasons the rent was very high.

There was, however, no room in it for servants to sleep in, and the cook and parlor-maid the Littles employed had rooms out. Therefore when the telephone rang shortly after midnight, Mr. Little had to get up and answer it himself.

The caller was Lawson, and his voice sounded very worried.

"Is Elsa there?" he asked.

"Elsa!" Mr. Little was astonished.

"No, of course not. She's at the Albert Hall, isn't she?"

"No, apparently she isn't," answered Lawson. "Look here, I'm coming along to see you right away; there's something funny about this. When you've heard what I have to say you must decide whether to call in the police."

Ten minutes later he arrived at the house. His usual appearance of smiling good humor had left him; he had a worried, agitated look. Mr. Little showed him into the study.

"What is all this?" he asked.

"Where's Elsa?" Lawson made a gesture of bewilderment.

"That's the whole point; where is she?" he replied. "She was missing at midnight when the film stars were introduced, and we've searched the whole Albert Hall for her and can't find her. The representatives of her company are furious about it. But she knew perfectly well she had to be there at midnight; I can't imagine she would be missing purposely."

FRUIT, NUT GROWERS IN TARIFF FIGHT

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Pacific coast fruit and nut producers have arrayed their forces against proponents of tariff reductions on Turkish raisins, figs and filberts.

Witnesses, headed by Senator William Gibbs McAdoo (D., Calif.) and Senator Charles McNary (R., Ore.) argued before a special committee on reciprocity information that inclusion of the three products in any trade agreement negotiated with Turkey would be disastrous to the industries in this country.

California witnesses were obviously annoyed when a representative of a group of eastern fruit importers described the California fig as of "very inferior quality" and demanded that the present tariff of five cents a pound on dried figs be halved.

The witness, Lawrence Wiseman, said importers were not particularly anxious for a reduction on raisins inasmuch as the California product was very satisfactory and of sufficient quality to serve the domestic market.

He termed the tariff on figs "ridiculously high" in the face of the fact the west coast product could not compete with the "superior grades" from the near east regardless of any tariff.

V. C. Arguinbau, New York City fig merchant, told the committee he considered Turkey the only country where a first class fig could be raised.

Senator McNary asserted all growers in the California fig and raisin sections were much concerned with "the possibility of a reduction in tariff as the result of a Turkish treaty."

"I urge you to bear in mind the large investment in the two industries," McNary told the committee.

YOUTH BOOKED AS BURGLAR

Charged with breaking open his employer's safe with a crowbar, Irvin L. Laughlin, 19-year-old junior living at 1206 West Fourth street, was booked in county jail on a burglary count yesterday.

Laughlin was arrested following theft of $18.75 from a safe at the Wright Transfer company, 301 S. Main street, Proprietor B. C. Wright told police he had loaned keys to Laughlin for a few minutes last Saturday, and the youth allegedly admitted to police he had made a pencil sketch of a key to the safe, intending to make a new key of it later.

Part of a rough file key was found near the safe, according to Detective Lieutenant C. W. Wolford, who made the arrest, and he indicated the crowbar apparently was used when the key failed to work.

EX-FARM BOY GETS BIG JOB

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A former Missouri farm boy, Roy M. Green, has been named manager of the $100,000,000 Federal Crop Insurance corporation, the agency created under the new farm law to insure wheat growers against crop failures.

Green, 49, has been chief of the agriculture department's division of finance in the bureau of agricultural economics since 1935.

The corporation will offer growers in 1300 wheat counties insurance on their 1939 crop. The coverage would pay for losses up to 75 per cent of normal yield caused by droughts, floods, freezes, insects and other natural causes.

HARNESS SETS THREE-DAY SALE

Bob Harness, resident manager of the Western Auto Supply company, announces a three-day month-end sale featuring greater saving on tires, batteries, oil and many specified accessories. Reduced prices on these automotive needs go into effect today, tomorrow and Saturday.

Harness calls attention of the buying public to the probability of chilly, rainy weather before summer, which always makes driving more or less hazardous.

Harness said: "Wise, economical automobile owners, who appreciate the need for dependable tires in all kinds of weather, will also readily appreciate the extra savings afforded by the special price reductions on Western Giants, effective this week-end.

"Continued cool weather, with its hard starting, demands a powerful, dependable battery for satisfactory starting and the full convenience of the car's electrical accessories.

"The oil sale will be enthusiastically received by the many local motorists who realize that Western Auto lubricants are equal to, if not better than, oils ordinarily selling at higher prices."

Harness has increased his stocks to meet the extra demand he feels sure will be made.

It may have just been a new bunco shuffling scheme, and it may have been an attempt to pass a bogus bill.

Either way, however, the Market Spot grocery at Fourth and Lacy streets was out some groceries today.

A man "purchased" some groceries offered the feminine cashier a $10 bill. When she said she'd have to see the manager to get change, he hurriedly grabbed the bill, said he'd see if his partner had change, dashed out to his car and sped away before anyone in the store could get the license number.

Grocery attendants told police the man was about 35 years old, 5 feet 10½ inches in height and weighing about 145 pounds.

TOWNSEND NEWS, VIEWS

By WALTER R. KOBB

In the direct primary law of California provision has been made for the establishment of new political parties when a sufficient number of the state's electors have evidenced by correct procedure such desire.

An examination of the primary law will disclose that "a political party or organization of electors shall be deemed to have qualified for participation in any primary election when one or both of the following conditions have been complied with:

1. "If on or before a day which shall be seventy-fifth day before any primary election it shall appear to the secretary of state as a result of examining and totaling the statement of registered electors and their political affiliations transmitted to him by the county clerks as required by Section 4 of the Direct Primary act that registered electors, equal in number to at least one per cent of the entire vote of the state at the last preceding election at which a governor was elected, have declared their intentions to affiliate with such political party or organization; or

2. "If on or before a day which shall be seventy-fifth day before any primary election there shall be filed with the secretary of state a petition signed by registered qualified electors of the state, at the last preceding November election at which a governor was elected, declaring that they represent a political party or organization the name of which shall be stated therein, which party said electors desire to have participate in such primary election; such petition shall be certified to and transmitted to the secretary of state by the county clerks substantially as provided by the Constitution and Political Code for initiative petitions; provided that each page of said petition shall bear a caption in eighteen point black face type, with caption shall be the name of the party or organization followed by the words, 'Petition to participate in the primary election,' provided further that no electors or organizations of electors shall assume a party name or designation which shall be similar to the name of an existing party or organization as to misled voters."

There is evident intention in the direct primary law of California to make it as fair and just as possible for registered voters to form a new political party when there is demand for such from a considerable number of voters as the following quoted portion of the statute plainly indicates:

"This statute shall be liberally construed, so that the real will of the electors shall not be defeated by any informality or failure to comply with all the provisions of the law."

The writer has furnished the information which tonight's and last night's articles have included because he knew there would be several thousand Townsends in the county who would desire specific knowledge of the law pertaining to the formation of new political parties. If such readers of this column will clip these two articles and lay them aside for future use they will have answers to the questions which will be asked many times between now and the coming primary election.

Peter Benthin requests that announcement be made of Santa Ana Club No. 7's meeting at 7 p. m. tomorrow evening in the Roosevelt school on East First street, George W. Lounsbury, president, will be in charge.

Huntington Beach Townsends are admonished to remember their club meeting at 7:30 this evening in Memorial hall at Sixth and Magnolia streets with A. D. Matthews, president, in charge. Walter R. Kobb of Santa Ana will be the speaker.

Alfred Redmond of Los Angeles will speak for Santa Ana Club No. 3 at 7:30 tonight in Townsend hall at 509 West Fourth street. A dinner for a charge of 35 cents will be served from 6 to 7:30 p. m. The Hurd-Lentz orchestra will furnish music.

Buena Park Townsends will hold a business meeting at 7:30 tonight in the Woman's club building at Eleventh and Grand streets. Afterwards the evening will be spent in a social affair.

Santa Ana Townsend Club No. 11 will be entertained at a meeting Friday night by a saxophone quartet, composed of four small boys, pupils of Julian D. Matthews. The meeting will be held at the Franklin school, 1312 West Fourth street. The public is invited.

SUTHERLAND WARNS OF GAS POISONING

Avoid the danger of inhaling carbon monoxide poisoning. Keep at least one window in your automobile open whenever the engine is running.

This is the advice of County Health Officer K. H. Sutherland who today presented facts from a report of the state health department showing how drivers of motor vehicles may unconsciously inhale this gas to the detriment of their health and possible jeopardy of their lives.

Tests conducted by the state reveal the gas is colorless, odorless and in sufficient quantity might produce death. During the past month the California State Department of Public Health Industrial Hygiene Service tested 688 motor vehicles for the determination of carbon monoxide.

Of 688 cars and trucks investigated at random throughout the state, 24 vehicles were found to expose drivers to a dangerous concentration of carbon monoxide while operating on the open highway.

Motorists who are subjected to drowsiness and headache while driving are advised to make certain by a mechanical check on their cars that shows carbon monoxide leakage, if any.

The presence of more than 100 parts of the gas to each million of air is considered by the health department a serious menace to health.

BOOKIE PROBE CONTINUED

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—With the possibility that a member of the California horse racing board may be summoned, the county grand jury today continued its investigation of the Santa Anita race track "bookie" scandal.

Alfred W. Worthington, former chief inspector for the racing board, outlined the alleged bribe plot to the grand jury.

In a report made public by Dist. Atty. Biron Fitts, Worthington charged the plot was engineered by Leon Raab, part owner of the racing stable. Raab is awaiting trial on a charge of attempting to bribe Worthington, a complaint having been filed by Fitts.

TRAFFIC SCHOOL DIAGNOSED, FOUND 'TOPS'

JURYMEN SET EXAMPLE OF POLITENESS

By FRANK ORR

Whatever his shortcomings may be, it doesn't seem to be in the makeup of a grand juror to be impolite. Both the 18-man majority report and the one-man minority report of the 1937 jury yesterday were so gracious they seemed to lack punch at first glance.

But down in the nooks and crannies were several well-phrased digs, which may or may not be obvious enough to be understood by those at whom they were aimed.

For instance, the jury, sugar-tongued, said it was not advisable to have more than one member of any immediate family working for the county. That is a good generality, and lands in several laps. But who can say they weren't thinking of Papa John Mitchell and the Three Little Mitchells?

PAYROLL CHECKED

When the payroll list was revised last fall, a Mitchell quartet was there to answer roll call. There was Papa, with $212.50 a month as supervisor. There was Son No. 1, getting $130 a month as stores clerk for the road department. There was Son No. 2, getting $125 as hospital guard; and there was Daughter, getting $85 a month as junior clerk at the hospital. Total Mitchell pay, $552.50 a month, plus traveling expense for Papa.

The jury also recommended that there be no "political interference" at the juvenile home, which might have meant Mitchell, and less of the same in the purchasing department, which might have meant N. E. West and his type-writer policy, which in a few words is don't give all the business to Bob Fernandez.

Perhaps, said the jury's auditor, it would be a good idea to collect some delinquent taxes in the San Juan Capistrano sanitary district. An official, said the report, had made only one collection in the last two years. He got a $34.89 check from the walnut growers March 26, 1937, and hadn't yet turned it in the next Dec. 29. The auditors gently suggested he get another check, and deposit it fairly soon.

JACKSON WINS APPROVAL

The jury, as is customary, did everything but pin a medal on Sheriff Logan Jackson, who has a way with grand jury committees, and Dr. Harry Zaiser of the county hospital, who has, too. A gentle suggestion was made that the hospital get some modern equipment, but Jackson wasn't even given any advice except to get uniforms for his deputies. And, by some strange happenstance, Jackson apparently was psychic enough to know that and order his deputies, some days before the report, to buy their own suits.

Jackson, the jury reported, takes in "considerably less" than $10,000 a year, whatever that means, according to his own income tax returns, which the jury inspected. That no doubt was a surprise to West, who had been tossing such figures as $25,000 into the air, which may have been a trifle high.

JURY INTIMATES

Supervisors may have done a good many other things wrong, the jury intimated, but they haven't been using county gasoline in their own cars recently, despite a "document" to the contrary.

Everybody was ready to shoot yesterday morning the judge, district attorney and clerk were ready for the proceedings. Then something stopped the whole works for quite a while. The jurors were making out their claims for their pay, and, b'gosh, they were going to get their bills sketched first. They did.

WEST'S ANGLE

Supervisor West, if he wanted to do some research work—and apparently he didn't do enough before he made some of his charges—probably would find himself the holder of another distinction. Besides being the only supervisor to be subject of an outlier action in the county's history, West probably is the only person whose allegations have taken up half a grand jury's entire report.

The minority report by Justin Stewart bore out rumors current since the jury began work, to the effect that, according to persons who would slip up and whisper in your ear, "they're going to hang one on West, obnoxious; and they'll all vote for it except his one friend."

About Rug Weaving

—By—
MILLARD
BROWNE

Unaltered in 29 years, the first loom ever built in Santa Ana is still turning out a good day's work down on West First street. Hand-powered, the loom is an important piece of machinery for one of the city's slowest-changing industries—rug-weaving.

The small hand-loom with which the late Mrs. C. Ella Weaver began her rug industry back in 1909 now is just one of five looms at the Santa Ana rug factory, currently operated by the founder's nephew, Verne Wilson.

Weaving rag rugs and re-weaving worn-out carpets, specialties at the local factory, are essentially hand-crafts, can't be noticeably speeded by machinery, Wilson points out, since secret of rag-rug weaving and re-weave jobs is to get the edges tight and straight, and hand-moulding seems to do it better.

So only one of his machines is motor-powered, and that's more to take up some of the physical exertion of handling a big loom than to speed up production.

The local rug factory doesn't try to compete with big-time producers on new rugs, probably couldn't do it without much more equipment. It comes in where the bigger factories leave off, however, by converting scraps and rags into usable rugs.

Since rag-rugs are an old-fashioned commodity, major demand comes either from old-fashioned people, or from those who are furnishing period rooms or Monterey style houses. So the recent boom in Monterey style has caused a boom in re-weaves and rag-rugs.

Wilson is handling the plant alone these days, though it employed up to half a dozen people before depression. During slow times, he finds, people not only don't buy new rugs, but they don't even have the old ones repaired.

Rag-rug customers usually bring in their own rags, cut an inch and a half wide and pieced together into a long strip. If potential customers don't have any rags, Wilson refers them to a woman in Costa Mesa, Mrs. James Deeken, who's been making a part-time business of preparing rags for weaving into rugs. Rags, properly cut and sewed, are worth about 10 cents a pound.

Since rags are woven seven strands to the inch, it takes something over 1000 feet (or about four pounds) to make an average sized rug of 30 by 60 inches. Biggest rag-rug ordered recently will be nine by 12 feet, will use up about 30 pounds of rags.

Rag-rugs are harder to weave than the fluff variety made from

FREE DRINKS

CHICAGO. — When John Caspar, 45, walked into a tavern, the drinks were always on the house.

Detective Fred Susbeck said Caspar, after getting the over-the-counter, would represent himself as a federal internal revenue agent, and then proceed to sample the whisky.

"And he never left," the detective said, "without congratulating the owner for obeying the law." Caspar was held for questioning by federal agents.

H. H. H. H. H. INSISTS HE'S GOD'S GIFT

H.H.H.H. Hepzibah was haunting the board of supervisors again today, but he didn't waste time with words.

Instead, he presented a letter. It turned out to be a formidable document.

"I was not permitted to say what I want to say last week, so here is a letter that will say what I want to say," was his Holy, Highly Honored Hepzibah's only comment.

But the letter . . . It was neatly typed and headed by "Kingdom of the United States of America. The Branch Kind. Inner Court of the King."

Then came denunciation of the board for refusal to hear him last week, a dictum that the board could "extricate itself" only by submitting to certain requests.

They followed: "Therefore, herewith, by the Spirit of this document, demand is being made, in my Royal capacity, for the surrender of the whole county government into my Royal hands. In full of all the factors that enter into the government. Without argument, without formality and without deliberation."

Board Asked for Drainage Conduit

Construction by army engineers of a drainage conduit for the benefit of irrigation companies was asked today in a flood control resolution by county supervisors.

CONTRACTOR, 65, QUILTS QUILT

Among gentlemen quiltmakers, young and old, there seems to be some disagreement! Pete Albright, 65, of Clarence, Mo., a concrete contractor who quilts in his spare time, heard of the J. C. Penney quilt fair here through his friend, Olin Swearingen of 1047 West Fifth street, and sent two of his quilts, "Springtime" and "State Flowers" out here to be displayed. It takes Pete about 30 days to embroider one block of a quilt and each of his entries in the local fair has 16 embroidered blocks.

He is proud of his work, while Master Dale Johnson, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Johnson of 835 North Garnsey street, who has on display his quilt "Nursery," which he started at age of 5 while in kindergarten, announced that he has decided to give up quilting entirely and forever, as it is "too sissy."

PUNISHMENT NOT PURPOSE OF PENALTY

Firm Measures Needed
To Cut Fatalities

By GEORGE COVERDALE

Is the proposed Santa Ana traffic transgressors' school aimed at forcing free American citizens to undergo punishment for accidentally violating a vehicle law?

A glance through the study prescribed by the State Traffic Safety Advisory committee would tend to conclusively disprove this.

Rather, such a series of classroom studies is based on the assumption the automobile is a dangerous machine which each year kills nearly as many persons in the United States as are residing in Santa Ana at the present moment.

The idea for organizing such schools throughout the state came about from a study of fatalities occurring in factories.

It was found that accidents in industrial firms could be reduced by applying protective appliances to the mechanical devices workers were using. Later it was learned that by teaching these men how to operate the machines safely, mishaps could be scaled downward to a minimum.

Since the advent of the automobile, manufacturers have consistently made their cars safer for drivers. The four-wheel brakes, safety glass and other inventions are examples.

Most persons learn how to operate their cars, the state safety commission points out, from drivers who themselves possess many faults. The student, just as likely as not, picks up the bad habits as well as the good from his teacher, accepting them as examples of "smart" driving.

Finally someone hit upon the idea that perhaps motorists might well learn a few tricks in safety handling their automobiles and the traffic school was started.

It is operating today effectively in several communities, local officials say.

As suggested by the state safety council the school "consists of six 1½ to 2 hour periods, one period a week for five weeks and an examination at the sixth. Each class period is a separate unit in itself permitting persons to enter the course at any time."

"The matter of conducting the class is referred to, as an open forum, and in a sense, it resembles somewhat a Seminar," according to the state advisory.

Wife Might Work to Help Husband Climb to Better Work Writes Young Miss

A "Miss Twenty-Four" who after a struggle is now making a good wage in her line of business and has in her own words, "found a comfortable place in the big game of life" for herself, wrote me her opinions on marriage, children and a wife working out.

Miss Twenty-Four's outlook on life is pretty much the same as that of the women of America as a whole according to the recent survey being conducted by a leading national women's magazine on opinions of women on just such subjects as these, and was especially interesting to me for that reason. I think "Miss Twenty-Four" and the rest of the women of America are right. Her letter is full of womanly common-sense.

Dear Miss Stoddard: I have read Mr. Twenty-Five's letter, and felt that I just must speak my mind concerning his problems.

First, concerning children, I agree that a couple should be able to support them and give them proper care and education.

However, I do not agree with Mr. Twenty-Five's idea of asking his wife to work out and help support the home for an indefinite period of time, for according to his present status he probably would never be able to fully take over the responsibility of keeping a home and raising a family.

I believe that this question might be modified along the following lines: that he and his wife both work out and put money in the home, living as economically as possible, in the mean time all money that can possibly be saved out of "operating" expenses be used to further educate Mr. Twenty-five in some line of business of some profession of his choosing so that some day Mr. Twenty-five will be able to take care of his wife and family in a manner befitting them. This is the only circumstance under and the only reason for a woman working away from home just after she is married as far as I can see. Many waitresses have helped put their truck-driver husbands on a higher plane of earning. Many nurses have helped their student husbands through medical college.

This, I believe, is all right, but I certainly would dislike to think of myself marrying some man whom I would have to work for the rest of my life, especially when I am making a very liberal wage in my line of business. This is just the opinion of a young lady who has known financial difficulties but who has finally found a comfortable place for herself in the big game of life. Sincerely,

MISS TWENTY-FOUR.

P.T.A. News

Luncheon To Honor P.T.A. Founders

A quarter-century of constantly increasing service and scope will be celebrated by members of Santa Ana Council Parent-Teacher association Friday afternoon, the fourth Founders' day to be thus observed.

It was Jan. 30, 1913 that Mrs. C. C. Noble officiated at getting P.T.A.-minded women together and organizing both a Santa Ana council and the Fourth District association. She will be an honored guest at Friday's anniversary luncheon, as will be Mrs. G. P. Hill, now Hemet, and first district president, and Mrs. Frank McElree, first council president.

Likewise on the honor roll will be other past presidents, and Mrs. Harry Drown and Mrs. Robert Korff, present executives of both organizations.

The affair will be in the form of a dessert luncheon at 1:30 p. m. in the educational building of the First Christian church. Later members and their guests will go to the Colonial chapel on Seventh street for a musical program and the candle-lighting ceremony.

Mrs. R. A. Weisgerber and Mrs. Harold Brown are in charge of luncheon plans, and all reservations must be made with Mrs. Harry Becker of 1411 North Flower street by this evening.

Mrs. Floyd Mitchell will officiate at the luncheon, and Mrs. W. R. Crawford, senior past president of the council, will be speaker of the afternoon and will talk on "What Founders' Day Means to Us." Mrs. Crawford served for two years on the council, and was also program chairman of the Fourth district. In this capacity she was instrumental in instituting the present system of program awards given each local school for having a 100 per cent approved program for the year's P.T.A. meetings.

WILLARD

A nominating committee to name new officers was announced at this week's monthly meeting of Willard Parent-Teacher association, when Founders' Day was celebrated. Comprising the committee are Mrs. W. O. Mendenhall, Mrs. Warren Hilyard, Mrs. Russell Adkinson, Mrs. A. S. Sullivan, and Principal Lyle Mitchell.

Roll called was answered by past presidents, and Mrs. Harold Keech, treasurer, reported that a Spanish dinner sponsored last Friday by the group was very successful financially.

Principals speaker of the day was Mrs. W. T. Kirven, state hygiene chairman, who spoke on the accomplishments of the Parent-Teacher association. Delightful music was provided by the glee clubs, directed by Herbert Michael.

A refreshment course concluded the afternoon, with Mrs. Fred Thompson, Mrs. Carl Lewis, and Mrs. Albert Chast as hostesses.

S. A. COUNCIL

Santa Ana council will have its next meeting March 1 at 9:30 a. m. at Hoover school auditorium. Business will include voting on the revision of by-laws and the election of officers. Delegates from locals must have their membership cards.

Reports will be heard from Mrs. James Hurd, parent education chairman, and Mrs. J. W. Logan, radio chairman. Mrs. Floyd Mitchell will be in charge of the session.

EDISON

Edison Parent-Teacher association will conduct a study group class March 3 at 2 p. m. with Mrs. Nelle Hunt as teacher. It will be the first of a series of parent education classes.

HOOPER

In connection with their adult education program, members of Hoover P.T.A. enjoyed their final session under Mrs. Nell Hunt's tutelage Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Hunt's topic was "Discipline and Obedience," and she stressed the importance of parental intelligence in connection with children's falsehoods—discovering motives, affording protection, barring physical and mental torture, and refraining from too stressed disapproval.

ABSURDLY GRACEFUL

Trudi Schoop, who with her dancing comedians of world-wide fame, will present an evening of riotous dance comedies, unlike any other program ever before presented, for Santa Anans at the high school auditorium March 3.

Trudi Schoop Comedians Coming

Trudi Schoop is coming! That name to American audiences is like the Pied Piper's to the children of Hamelin. This Swiss ballet Miss is in fact the Pied Piper of Pantomime. By the time she comes to Santa Ana on March 3 during her third titillating transcontinental tour, she will have been likened to practically every comic character in life and literature. Even so, there is no way of truly describing her. Her $300,000 insured hands, her troll's face, and her talking legs, elude description.

From the time she first appeared in Berlin in 1929 she was hailed as the female Grogg, a comical patriot of hers and internationally famous clown. Europe went on to call her "the sister of Charlie Chaplin." From the artistic point of view Charlie never disclaimed this relationship. Her acting and pantomime have been likened to Bergner. The music world dubbed her "The Eulenspiegel of the Dance." On her first appearance in America in 1935 the critics lost no time in naming her the rival of Mickey Mouse. Walt Disney could not but admit that she was really an animated cartoon in the flesh.

Curiously enough, Trudi Schoop, queen of elves, trolls, imps and sprites, whose dancing troupe is made up of whores and whores, and whose unique realm with undiminished boisterous fun, when asked if she had acquaintance with "Peter Pan" responded only with a quick "who?"

She was able to do no better when questioned about the late Sir James Barrie, creator of the boy who would never grow up. However, when Peter and his makers were explained, she did voice her intention to investigate them. She will probably find nothing new. It will prove no more than a biography of herself.

Returning to America under the sponsorship of S. Hurok, the Swiss mistress of pantomime brings her troupe of 22 in a new ballet titled "All for Love." Miss Schoop was much intrigued by America during her previous two tours, especially by the gum-chewing natives. This new ballet is her comment on life in this country.

At the spring table, centered with a pastel-hued maypole, were Mrs. R. E. Steinberger, Mrs. R. G. Bond, and Mrs. E. W. Ashland as executives. A summer table, centered with a miniature beach scene, was presided over by Mrs. C. L. Williamson, Mrs. Roland Flaherty, and Mrs. V. C. Shidler, while fall, with a Halloween central motif, was presided over by Mrs. J. K. Givens and Mrs. L. R. Musick. A Christmas scene for winter found Mrs. S. B. Power, Mrs. E. E. Frisby, and Mrs. Forrest Menzie presiding.

The entire executive board was in charge of the day's program, with others than those presiding at tables who officiated in receiving and serving, being Mrs. Forrest Menzie, Mrs. Dan Hassett, Mrs. A. Ashland, Mrs. Richard Metz, Mrs. Marguerite Hill, Mrs. Iva Webber, and Harold Nelson.

CITY-WIDE POP CORN SALE IS PLANNED

All Santa Ana schools will conduct a sale of popcorn balls Tuesday, March 1, for the purpose of raising money for Santa Ana Council P.T.A. budget.

Mrs. Harry Becker, budget and finance chairman, hopes to make the sale an annual event, and would like orders for the balls to be made by tomorrow. The sale will be the only money-raising event sponsored by the Council and is the only opportunity for locals to support their Council.

SPRINGTIME PLAY OPENS AT PADUA HILLS

Spring has not yet come to the Southland valleys, but "Once in the Spring," a play of early California, opens this week at the Padua Hills theater, bringing not only the season dear to the hearts of all, but also the adventurous and romantic days of our golden past.

Factually portraying life in the Pomona valley and the pueblo of Los Angeles during 1840, the Mexican players' production recreates and relives the spirit of this glamorous time, its pastoral simplicity, the unusual codes and manners, the gay fiestas which made this period the most colorful in all our history.

"Once in the Spring," written by Scott O'Dell, author of the novel, "Woman of Spain," in addition to a dramatic and strongly appealing love story, plot and counterplot, is replete with songs and dances representative of the times, 15 in all, carefully selected, from the rich store available, because of their color and beauty. Not only in the matter of plot and songs and dances, but also in costumes, sets and general staging does this play of early California represent the most ambitious production of the period yet given at the Padua Hills theater.

Members of Junior Ebell's Home and Garden section found Mrs. M. W. Hollingsworth a particularly interesting and instructive speaker when they met this week in the charming home of Mrs. Gordon X. Richmond of Orange.

Mrs. Hollingsworth discussed the subject of antiques from many angles, bringing with her samples of glass, china, brass, silver and furniture, and illustrating the points that amateurs should look for when "antiquing."

Mrs. Richmond was assisted in hostess duties by Mrs. Claude Brakel and Mrs. Raymond Terry. The hostesses arranged a smart red, white, and blue tea table late in the afternoon and asked Mrs. Alex Brownbridge, a special guest for the day and mother of the section leader, Mrs. Crawford Nalle, to pour.

A guest with Mrs. Brownbridge was Mrs. Eugene Tradewell. Ebells present were Mrs. Nalle, Mrs. Thomas Rhone, Mrs. Charles McDaniel, Mrs. E. F. Elfstrom, Miss Mildred Spicer, Mrs. Thornburn White, Miss Marian Parker, Mrs. Stanley Norton, and the three hostesses.

TICKETS ON SALE FOR EBELL FASHION SHOW

With March but a few days off, Junior Ebells are rallying to the call of Mrs. Harold Dale, general chairman of this year's annual spring fashion show and bridge tea, for that ever-important affair is scheduled to be given March 19.

Tickets are already on sale for the affair, and Mrs. Dale reminds the public that in previous years the Ebell Peacock room and foyer have been crowded to capacity, suggesting that reservations be made early.

In charge of tickets are Mrs. Quentin Matzen, Mrs. H. Raymond Smith, and Mrs. James Merigold. Mrs. E. Lee Smith is superintending tables.

PERSIAN PRINT

As a new note for intermediate wear in town, or southern cruises, Persian prints, as illustrated above, are being used by turbanists with or without matching scarfs. There is an interesting treatment in the model illustrated, which is draped for width, and is trimmed with blue ribbon, the print incorporating red, blue and beige on a satin ground. The scarf is shirred with full ends.

WOMAN'S CLUB TO HEAR MRS. STEPHENSON

Mrs. Terry Stephenson will give a talk on California history and landmarks as a feature of next Tuesday's regular meeting of the Santa Ana Woman's club. Mrs. Stephenson has long been an ardent student of the subject and her talk is eagerly anticipated.

In conjunction with her topic there will be Spanish and Mexican music, and a tea later will honor past presidents of the club.

Yesterday the Study section met with its leader, Mrs. P. R. Arnold and after a potluck luncheon, enjoyed a stimulating session of current events.

Present were two guests, Mrs. Amanda Huffman and Mrs. A. Door. Members present were Mrs. A. J. Knight, Mrs. R. A. McMahon, Mrs. F. A. Martin, Mrs. George De Rouillac, Mrs. Charles Clark, Mrs. W. E. Dennis, Mrs. J. G. Limbird, Mrs. Sally Williams, Mrs. E. C. Wilson, Mrs. Edward Maier, Mrs. William Kuhn, Mrs. Mary Fairbanks and Mrs. C. F. Crose with Mrs. Arnold.

Cute Aunt Polly—I have had the most delicious laugh at her last mischievous letter—for she has been hiding things from me! Aunt Polly has hips! They are not so terribly bad, as she has written "if I put as much energy into practicing the piano as I put into kicking about on the floor at night, I really think I'd be a famous musician by now!" "Young woman who intends living out this modern idea of 'Life Begins at 40!'"

I'll wager it was the trying on of trim tailored suits which made Aunt Polly break down and confess for she could plainly see that if I suggested a snug little round about, she would surely nip in at the waist, all my earnest plans would go awry. Anyhow, the worst is out! But after all, it is an old and fairly simple problem. Nearly all of us have "hips!"

So dear Aunt Polly—let's ride with the times and plot a most distinctive way of dressing which will give you that extra "little something" which every woman wants to have! How would you like to have a wardrobe all in one color—every shade and fabric and manner of costume for this trip done around one basic color? So that the gossipy ship-mates will be saying "The woman who always wears grey." It can be most exciting—and you would be surprised to find the dramatically different effect colored accents bring to one basic color.

And then—because my imagination can picture nothing as near the heights of perfection as utmost simplicity done with exquisite artistry—all of "our" wardrobe will be stunningly simple. But oh—the capricious touches and thrilling accessories we must gather! Each costume then in this scheme must be ever so subtly different! Shall the color be grey? Then there will be mauve-grey chiffon frocks for tropical nights—and a stunning grey like coat for the cold ocean crossings—and oh, I can do wonders with such an exciting idea!

Too—before I mention today's important first suit—you must hunt out a perfume which you are positive you like. For like your color, you must have an exquisite, sympathetic perfume whose delicate fragrance will follow you from now until you return—always!

Now the suit! The travel suit is going to be a long bolero, straight-hanging and just below the waistline in length. And its fabric will be a vaguely hairy, textured and yet soft grey wool in medium tone. The edges of

Family Natal Days Are Feted

Mrs. Arthur Kubitz was hostess at a delightful birthday dinner party last night complimenting her husband and their cousin, Miss Serena Lehmann of Tustin. Mr. Kubitz's birthday anniversary was yesterday, and Miss Lehmann's was Feb. 19.

Jonquils and pretty little place cards made a festive event of the dinner, with guests present including Mrs. Anna Kubitz, Miss Helene Kubitz, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kubitz, Miss Madeline and Miss Arlene Kubitz, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schroeder, Miss Leona Schroeder, Kenneth Schroeder, D. W. Schroeder, Lowell Schroeder, Fred Sabers, James Noe and the two guests of honor.

The Kubitz family has many birthday anniversaries in February, and on a recent Saturday night, Mrs. Anna Kubitz gave a charming buffet supper to compliment her son-in-law, Otto Schroeder, her son, Walter, and her daughter Helen, all of whom have been celebrating this month. The same guests were present at the affair.

FAMILY TRIO OF CELEBRANTS HONORED

Two well-known Orange county pioneers, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Cozad, were hosts at an enjoyable family function Sunday when they entertained at dinner in their home, 804 East Main street, to compliment three of their children whose birthday anniversaries occur in February. Those honored were Mrs. Alice Cluster, Paul Cozad, and Albert Cozad.

Present to enjoy the delectable dinner entirely prepared by the capable hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Cozad, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cozad; Albert Cozad; and Mrs. Leo Sallert and Paul Sallert of Fullerton; Mr. and Mrs. John Cozad and Jacqueline; Mrs. Cora Breeding and Calvin Breeding; and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Breeding of Pasadena.

COUSINS ENTERTAINED AT DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Harp, daughter, Rosemary, and niece Frances Millhorn of 419 West Washington street had as dinner guests Tuesday night, Mrs. Frank Mallory of Hemet and Los Angeles, Miss Eva Deane of Toronto, Canada, and Dick Handcock of San Jacinto.

Miss Deacock, a cousin of Mrs. Harp, is visiting relatives in Southern California, and is now at the home of Mrs. Mallory, an aunt. Mrs. Handcock is a brother of Mrs. Harp. An interesting evening was spent talking of the various relatives recently visited by Miss Deacock, and reminiscences in general. Mrs. Mallory telling of a visit to Santa Ana some time ago to admire the three blocks which had paved streets.

This jacket will be stitched all around, and there will be buttons and bound button holes all the way up the front to the notched lapel collar. The skirt is going to have a trio of hidden plaits on both sides in front to give grace in walking. But—there will be a second skirt too—for dressier moments—with thin plaits all around and stitched down well below the thigh! Next—to go over this is going to be a flared, bulky, loose real topcoat (but well enough cut to be vastly flattering) in a much thicker grey wool. And surrounding the neck and extending right down to the bottom of the hem along both fronts will be a collar of long-haired black wolf! I will make more soon—so hurry the shopping—for I have the most exciting plans!

THE PRICE OF ART...
Robert Burns, immortal Scottish poet, early learned that genius has a habit of going unrewarded. Yet Burns looked at the truth in a manner far from philosophical when, in 1793, he met it face to face.

asked in 1792 to contribute to George Thompson's "Select Collection of Original Scottish Airs with Symphonies and Accompaniments for the Pianoforte and Violin; the Poetry of Robert Burns." Burns evidently could not resist the title and set about to compose some 100 brand new songs, the best of which still ring in the ears of every true Scot the world over. When they were compiled, Burns went to collect the magnificent commission he anticipated. His amazement was overwhelming when he received instead a shawl for his wife, a picture by David Allan representing the "Cotter's Saturday Night" and five pounds! Burns sat down and indignantly wrote a letter expressing his chagrin and disappointment, and never afterwards composed for money.

Remember the Emperor Napoleon!

This latest news from the Oriental battlefields contains something worth keeping your eye on. The development may be of no more importance than a dribble of sand across a dune; or, it may mark a turn in the tide of the world's history. The next few months will tell.

Formosa, Japanese colony, is bombed; three high-ranking Japanese army commanders are recalled from duty in China. Behind the order for their transfer is the hint that the Nipponese forces at last are meeting a stone-wall resistance, that even, in places, they are being rolled back. News readers will recall that only a few days ago Marshal Chiang Kai-Shek said that a decisive battle was in the making, and that his legions were prepared to stand and die if need be.

The bombing of the Japanese (once Chinese) island of Formosa in itself is of slight importance. But if it is a forerunner of a vigorous series of air raids perhaps on Japan itself, perhaps on Tokyo, it may have great significance. For Japan, long accustomed to the making of war, is not accustomed to being herself the target for shells and bombs.

For years now the three aggressive, war-worshipping dictatorships, Germany, Italy and Japan, have been making steady gains. Italy seized Ethiopia, wrested a partial control of the Mediterranean from the British Empire, and has come close to a conquest of Spain. Germany has re-armed herself, regained the Ruhr, openly threatened Soviet Russia, torn up the Versailles treaty, made herself dominant in Austria, and to a considerable extent ignored and terrorized France. Japan has carried on a long, long campaign of successful conquest on the continent of Asia.

In all three cases, these successes have been marked by determination, bluff and ruthlessness. But now what would happen to the dictatorial ideal, the dictatorial prestige, to the dictatorial Big Three, provided one of them suddenly should receive a severe set-back—should begin to lose?

Suppose, for example, that Chiang Kai-Shek's angered soldiers begin at last to drive back out of continental Asia these invaders long accustomed to easy victory? What then might happen at home in Nippon? Not a week since, the diet saw riotous scenes arising from quarrels between the war lord party and the more moderate representatives of the Japanese people. Suppose, under the brunt of further Chinese attacks, under the destruction of myshap of bombs falling in Tokyo, the peace-loving people of Japan should arise and assert themselves—what then?

And if Japan's dream of world empire begins to fade in the east, how would it go with Messrs. Hitler and Mussolini in Europe? Does not their continued power depend on victory after victory? On gain piled upon gain? Does not the stability of each of them, and of the war machine of Japan as well, depend on an ever continuing ability to point to new glories for the dictator idea abroad as well as at home?

Cold blooded trade reports show that the world boycott of Japanese products, unofficial, little heralded as it may be, already has become cruelly effective; that Japan's commerce is shrinking, its earnings declining, its ability to make warfare thus steadily lessening.

Keep your eyes on this news from the Far East. It is possible that Chiang Kai-Shek may in time not only drive out China's hated foe, but may also contribute to a worldwide and lasting defeat of the whole fascist philosophy. If the dictators start slipping, they will slip fast, and a mighty crash they will make. Remember the Emperor Napoleon!

Looks like California Democrats are going to have more candidates for governor than the Mexican army has generals.

Why Not Tell the Figures?

Referring to charges made by Supervisor West against Sheriff Logan Jackson, the county grand jury in its final report to the supervisors court says:

"Careful audit, covering the past three years, including inspection of the sheriff's income tax reports, indicated that his total income instead of being $20,000 a year has been considerably less than half that amount."

This brief statement will provoke many questions in citizens' minds, such as these:

Who made the audit? Has it been filed as a public record? Why was it not embodied in the grand jury's report? If it has not been filed as a public record, why not?

This "total income" of "less than half" $20,000—was how much? In addition to the sheriff's salary $2892, what items comprised it? Why doesn't the sheriff file, as required by law, a periodical report of his fees?

After all, his is a public office; the taxpayers pay the salary and the upkeep of the department. Citizens generally pay the fees. They ought to have full information about them. The grand jury, instead of shedding light on the subject, has said just enough to set people to wondering about the facts kept secret.

In other words, says Britain, "if you can't lick 'em, join 'em!"

Still Winter in the Mountains

This balmy weather reminds that spring is less than a month away. So here's a last-minute suggestion to get your share of winter sports in the snow-capped ranges of the Southland before the thaw sets in.

A moderate dose of skiing, tobogganing, skating or just plain snowballing is good for most Southern Californians at least once a year.

FAIR Enough

Gambling As Missouri Likes It

By Westbrook Pegler

KANSAS CITY.—In the course of this pleasant visit to Kansas City, where the blackjack dealer sits at his kidney-shaped table flipping cards to the clients in plain view of the public and the law, gamblers suffer much from the cynicism of those who like to think the worst.

I gave expression to a little doubt one recent evening while visiting a resort called the state line tavern, a dance hall, bar and gambling house down in the cattle and railroad yards which straddles the line between Warton, Mo., and Bleeding, Kan., with mischief and mirth on the Missouri side and nothing but morality and space in the few square feet where Kansas is.

There is some sort of law in process against the management at this writing on the claim of a Kansas authority that some clients of the tavern were crowded over the line one busy night when a goodly throng was there and were caught feloniously casting dice on forbidden ground. A survey is being made and ere the thing is settled Missouri and Kansas may resort to arms again, as of old, to make war over a boundary.

The manager had turned over to an assistant the stick or crook with which the cubes are retrieved from where they fall and was explaining with gracious patience what folly it would be for a casino with a steady, high class trade like his to permit any tricks of magic with the cubes or cards.

BEDRAGGLED LADIES
A clientele, incidentally, was composed in the main of men in overalls or other hardy apparel and seemed to be railroad laborers and freighters employed on the interstate truck lines. Some were shuffling around in the state measures of the squirm with spotty and bedraggled ladies to whom no formal introduction seemed necessary, but most were hanging around the crap-tables, and none, be it said to the credit of their intelligence, were playing the bird cage.

Incidentally, it is very bad form to refer to the stickman's stick as a crook—a word as shocking in the state line tavern and similar resorts as the word bloody in an English drawing room.

Loaded dice and don'ts, the manager declared, and all other deceptions are positively forbidden in his pastimes and for proof he proudly displayed a franchise which said that E. A. Gould, the exclusive purveyor of dice to the state line tavern, upon thorough investigation of the proprietor's character and the ethical standards of his place, had been pleased to confer this honor.

PERFECT DICE
"This certifies," the document read, "that the state line tavern has complied with all the requirements necessary to receive this franchise, which is subject to withdrawal for cause at any time without notice. One thousand dollars will be paid to anyone who can prove that any dice bearing the signature of E. A. Gould are not perfect, true dice."

It bore a gold seal with two red ribbons and the personal signature of Mr. Gould himself, a leading member of the gambling tool business, who is fighting to command for the game of craps, more truly than baseball, the American national game, the public respect and confidence which have been sacrificed to scurrilous innuendo and hearsay. He has composed a brochure, in which he declares that any club displaying his franchise may be patronized with full confidence that the character and integrity of the men in charge have been investigated and approved by E. A. Gould.

It was a reassuring lesson, but my confidence backslid somewhat next day when I learned that a friend had fished from a blackjack dealer, to whom he lost $20, a deck of cards whose back design contained a subtle but distinct variation to distinguish the cards below No. 8 from those above.

DO YOU SUPPOSE?
Could this have been a slip of the printing press do you suppose? Because my friend insists that, dealing blackjack with this deck, he has a valuable clue to the size of his opponent's hole-card and a potent advantage in deciding how much he has to beat himself.

Perhaps it was a mechanical error, but if so, how would you account for a curious operation observed at a factory where a young salesman inadvertently led the way into a room marked "positively employees only." A young woman with deft, sure fingers was busy making certain red ink marks on the back designs of hundreds of new deck-backed cards?

I asked the young woman what these marks were for, but she only giggled and wouldn't say, and the best I can do is hope that she was just touching them up for aesthetic reasons. I appeal to Mr. Gould as defender of a long-suffering trade.

I have found that the older people get the plainer they talk. I blush when I think of some of the articles I use to write on the Press-Argus back home when I was a boy. I was just trying to show off with a lot of big words.

One time when we had a flood back there, I wrote "The storm king hurled his ruin and tumult torrent over the ruins of the broken and dismembered edifice." Today I would just simply say "The flood washed away Bill Spradley's barn."

The Merry-Go-Round

Country's Sorest Economic Spot Is Michigan, Relief Jumps 285 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, (P) — Administration advisers are now investigating the latest Wall Street dodge of trading via London.

The system is very simple. Any one who wants to sell short or operate on lower margins has his orders placed in the New York market through a London bank or broker. This gives him two advantages. First, London banks receive only 20 per cent margins, compared with 45 per cent on a purchase and 50 per cent on a short sale required by the Federal Reserve board.

Second, gets around SEC restrictions against short selling. Cabled from abroad, there is no way for the SEC to ascertain definitely whether the operation is a short sale in the first place, and no way to take any action against the foreign seller, in the second place.

SELLER USUALLY RIGHT
The joke, however, is that the seller usually is right in New York. He merely manipulates the deal through London. At least two New York brokerage houses have worked this system out to such perfection, that they arrange all the machinery in London. Their customers merely have to walk in and place their orders. Note: The customer has to be very well known to the brokerage house, however. It wants no leaks to the SEC.

In the opinion of R. E. Mahon, newspaper dealer, the Capitol of the United States is no place to trust anyone in business. Operating on the honor system, he has had two news stands in the House Office buildings. Buyers were supposed to put their money in a box. But after one day's sale of 115 papers netted eight cents, Mahon got discouraged and closed both branch offices. Now he remains at his stand in the Capitol in person.

Representative Henry Luckey of Nebraska certainly found a skeleton in the Democratic family closet when he dug up the Democratic national platform of 1924 endorsing Louis Ludlow's idea of requiring a referendum for the declaration of war.

It was this same Ludlow resolution which so recently worried Roosevelt and Hull and was killed largely as a result of their urgent pleading.

What Other Editors Say

SAFETY IN LAUGHTER
It is rumored that the dictator of Greece is on his way out because the people are laughing at him. That is one thing a dictator doesn't take very well. He usually has no sense of humor himself and is uncomfortable if others near him possess it.

Have you ever in any newspaper or magazine seen a smile on the face of Hitler, or Mussolini, or Stalin? The job's too serious for that.

Another factor is said to be working against Metaxas, dictator for a year. It is the Greek custom and tradition of discussing politics, a practice that persists no matter who is in power. A people that can't be stopped from talking about public affairs and laughing at officials can't be oppressed by one dictator indefinitely.

Free discussion and ridicule of stuffed-shirt officials are two of democracy's safeguards.—San Bernardino Sun.

The Mailbag

Public opinion, or what somebody in office imagines to be public opinion, is our ruler. If public opinion is active, the politicians and people sit up and take notice. There is a definite need for outspoken talking and thinking on public matters. Honest intelligent fair discussion of our problems is positively useful. So that every citizen must have his say and contribute to the formation of public opinion. The Journal invites letters to The Mailbag.

To the Editor: A few weeks ago The Journal graciously published an article by the undersigned about the union label on printing and also the organizing of farm labor. This article was in reply to an editorial appearing in several weekly papers of Orange county under The Weekly Watchtower. Last week there appeared a somewhat sardonic reply to my answer with the sub-heading: "Farm Labor Should Be Unionized Because Ocean Is Salty." The heading makes about as much sense as one particular paragraph in the article, which says: "And as far as his (Mr. Fisher) getting only $6 a day is concerned, there are members of the Orange County Weekly Newspaper association who worked long hours on middle west farm for $2 a day or less."

If the Watchtower will lend me his very sarcastic literary mantle I may state that from my observations on this $2 farm work was of the same calibre as some of the weeklies I have seen throughout these United States. . . . well then some folks were highly overpaid.

On the other hand, Mr. Watchtower, in that $2 a day era was not butter, eggs and living conditions in general at a price in comparison with the wages received? And in those days the butcher used to throw in a chunk of live free of charge with your meat order.

The weekly newspapers have an organization, the farmers have an organization . . . so why is it not reasonable for the farm help to organize?

By the way, Mr. Watchtower, we wonder how much of this farm help works a few short months a season at wages that can be classed as near "starvation," then come to the county relief agencies to be taken care of the balance of the year.

The following day after the bombardment of The Watchtower there appeared an article in The Journal's Mailbag signed "Weekly Editor."

It is indeed sorrowful the writer of that article did not deem it wise to sign his real name. If such had been the case I would have gladly endeavored to contact Mr. Weekly Editor personally and perhaps enlightened him to the point that he either did not know what he was talking about or else has been working under the wrong impression.

Any time he wishes a list of label shops I shall gladly furnish him with same.

Mr. Weekly Editor asks me if I have taken the time and trouble to inquire into the number of printing office workers who are unemployed in Orange county. He follows up by stating a survey would find there are as many unemployed printers as there are men regularly employed under organized workers' contracts.

Remember printers and not "blacksmiths" are involved. However, I will admit that if the present cut-rate epidemic on bids for county printing continues there will not only be many printers looking for work, but some of the proprietors will be seeing their establishments padlocked. Which reminds me, what about the commercial printers' organization which a few years back had a label made to go on their printers' labels, somewhat resembling the union printers' label?

May I put Mr. Weekly Editor right on the paragraph concerning the one-man proprietor shops. He speaks about a candidate looking up a printer-owner shop as being able to supply the label because for many years he has kept up his dues in the I.T.U.

Quoting a section from our general laws: "Subordinate unions shall not allow the typographical label to be used upon any work when the composition is performed by any person who is not an active member of the International Typographical Union. In offices where the proprietor, or proprietors, perform composing room work the label shall not be used unless supplied by the proprietor or proprietors." The proprietor is regularly employed at the scale and under union rules and regulations on work that bears the label.

In Santa Ana we have three shops that are run by proprietor members and they are NOT entitled to use the label due to the above law.

Just recently it was the duty of an International Typographical Union representative to come to Orange county and confiscate several labels from a weekly newspaper that was not affiliated with the union. This publisher had used these labels on political printing. If the union label does not mean so much on printing Mr. Weekly Editor, why did this publisher revert to illegal tactics?

BRIGHT MOMENTS

Shortly before King Gustavus III of Sweden plunged his country into a long and bitter war, a long and bitter war, a rather unspurring satire was published against the king in Stockholm. The author of the piece was summoned to the palace. The man expected to be jailed for a long term. "I see you have much talent and much wit," the king said, "I fear you have not much bread," said the king. "I am desirous that you shall not be so hungry again, and I therefore appoint you inspector of my library."

DALE CARNEGIE'S Day —By— Day Philosophy

Can you look back to a lost opportunity? If so, don't worry. You have lots of good company. Opportunity does not always knock loudly. Sometimes, it comes quietly, and if not recognized, it may pass silently by.

Nearly one hundred and forty years ago, a young Scotch lad named Grant Thorburn, left his native town and came to the new country of America, to make his way. He settled near the coast, in the village of New York, and opened a small grocery store at the corner of Nassau and Liberty streets. A wide-awake young man, he used his brains to think of ways of attracting customers.

OPPORTUNITY
As he walked through the public market on Pearl street, one day, he saw a rose geranium plant. "Um-m-m, if that plant were set in a green flower-pot in my store, it would give a dash of cheerful color to the store. Folks would like that." Did they? Well, the first customer who came in bought both plant and pot, at a slight profit to Grant Thorburn. The following day near closing time, when the market man would be willing to sell cheaper than at an earlier hour, he went again to the market and bought two geraniums. These were taken by his customers almost as quickly as the first. Thorburn's opportunity began to spread itself out.

Thereafter, Thorburn would go each day to the market and bargain for the left-over plants. Soon he was showing in his window 50 or more plants at a time and selling them with surprising rapidity.

THEN COMES SEED

People from the country, coming to the city for business or pleasure, were frequently brought to Thorburn's store by their friends to see the display. Since it would be inconvenient for them to carry plants home, they would ask if they could not buy some seed. Thorburn told the market man about this.

"Well, now," said the latter, "I'm raising plants with the idea of selling the seed."

In that moment Grant Thorburn recognized opportunity with a capital "O" peering at him slyly. He recognized it and grabbed it.

"Look here," he proposed, "If you'll agree not to sell any seed yourself, I'll take all the seed you can raise."

Good. A contract was made.

FLORIST SHOP

Thorburn soon sold out his grocery business and became New York's first full-fledged florist. A few years later, he bought a fine house and had butlers and maids serving his household.

I wonder how many of you who read this paper today will find opportunity peering at you from around a corner. I wish I could be invisible at your side, on the lookout with you. Some of you are sure to get your chance today. Napoleon boasted that he never tried to make friends; that followers were of more importance. The result of that philosophy was what? Well, the most striking picture of Napoleon in existence is one of him standing alone, in exile, with an unhappy, melancholy expression on his face.

IT'S ODD

But It's Science
By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

NEW YORK.—The Chinese box of science is the search for the ultimate "seed of life."

There always is a smaller seed inside every seed of life so far traced. One of the smallest has been brought out of its nesting place by Professor Chambers, of New York University.

An expert in micro-chemistry, he has made things invisible to the unaided eye. His knives are threads of glass with tips drawn too fine to be seen without a microscope. With one of these glass knives he has pierced the nucleus of a living cell. The nucleus, says Chambers, has no apparent structure with the surrounding cell "white" — the cytoplasm.

But if the nucleus is punctured, the cytoplasm begins to disintegrate. The cell dies. This death never has failed to follow in a single-celled organism.

But some cells have two nuclei, and these furnish final proof that the nucleus is one of life's seed boxes. If only one nucleus is punctured, the cytoplasm begins to disintegrate, as if death were coming.

But this stops in a few minutes. In a short time the cell is fully expanded again, living apparently unharmed with its remaining nucleus.

The seed of human life is a single cell. It, too, has a nucleus. What makes the life inside the nucleus is unknown.
